Key Findings

- Alberta Landholder's Guide to Wildlife Friendly Fencing

Abstract

Through education outreach activities and partnerships, much needed resources can be developed for the end-user, and collaborative conservation relationships supported.

Introduction

Alberta Landholder's Guide to Wildlife Friendly Fencing is comprehensive guide to implementing wildlife friendly fencing techniques for agricultural and conservation purposes. It is built on two previous versions by the same publisher with permission from Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks and by the Wyoming Wildlife Foundation. Revised and updated, the new publication features the practical experience of Alberta landowners and resource program managers who have tested and adopted wildlife friendlier fencing.

Methods

Design, freelance writing, editing and illustration, and print management.

Results

Alberta Landholder's Guide to Wildlife Friendly Fencing was made available online (www.ab-conservation.com/publications/educational-materials/) and 4,100 units were printed.

Conclusions

Having in-house capabilities for media production within ACA Communications allows collaborative projects and partnerships to be realized and resources developed for ACA resource programs success.
